

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 05, 2009 5:00 AM

IDTAG.com Valentine Bling for your Pet combined with a piece of mind

by DogTime blogger Secret Shopper Blog

Pet Products Review - IDTAG.com

You know what the very best part about giving bling for Valentines is? Well it means you can tell your lovey they're your sweetheart every day. Well the makers of Little Gifts a leading manufacturer of pet products and giftware, have combined safety and style for dogs and cats. The new spectacular IDTAG.com uses a stylish identification tag with its own unique serial number or pet "social security number" enabling the owners to create a secure, on-line profile containing current photos, videos, health records and emergency contact information for their dog or cat. So if your precious one ever runs off, and god forbid goes missing, one call to the IDTAG.com emergency support line or a click of the mouse and you set an instant lost pet alert. Alerts are then sent to all the shelters in your area, vets, and rescue groups within 50 miles of where the pet was last seen. It like an amber alert for your pet.

Here is Pali wearing her IDTAG:

The Subscription plan for IDTAG.com is free for the first year with a purchase of the IDTAG ($7.99). IDTAG.com can be purchased at PetSmart, Meijer and at thousand of independent pet stores. go to www.idtag.com